_____ (initial here) I understand that only the iQuad/iQuadBT (iQuad app) is supported by Quadzilla as the interface to a 4k modified Adrenaline.

The 4k Adrenaline is one of the most aggressive tuners available. The 4k upgrade may not necessarily give you higher horse power or torque than the standard Adrenaline tunes. Be it known to the end user / installer that your vehicle may not be stable or perform as expected with extreme tunes. Every vehicle is different. The end user / installer may experience, but not limited to: white smoke, surging, high rpms with removal of rpm limiter, erratic idle, smoke, fuel cut off if you let off the throttle suddenly, broken parts, blown head gaskets, and pump starvation. It is the end user/ installers responsibility to make sure that all supporting modifications and parts are installed to safely support your desired and intended Horsepower.

The 4k upgrade is not recommended unless your vehicle has been modified with heavy duty push rods, upgraded valve springs, bigger turbo, head studs, an upgraded transmission, and an upgraded fuel system. Quadzilla Power, LLC is not responsible for any damage that may occur to your vehicle when using the 4k tunes.

In the event that you decide you no longer want the 4k modification, a complete board replacement will be required due to the modifications to the Adrenaline board.
