INSTALLATION

01-09 GM TRUCKS ONLY

Remove the fender well to access the exhaust manifold. Towards the rear of the manifold is a flange where the manifold bolts together, just in front of this flange is the most ideal location to drill and install the thermocoupler.

98-07 DODGE TRUCKS ONLY

Mount your thermocoupler on top of the manifold, near the turbo charger. Be sure to make certain you can fit your drill in the location you choose.

07.5-09 DODGE TRUCKS ONLY

Mount your thermocoupler on the side of the manifold, near the turbo charger. Be sure to make certain you can fit your drill in the location you choose.

03-09 FORD TRUCKS ONLY

Mount your thermocoupler on the elbow of the driver's side manifold. This will require you to drill and tap from underneath the truck.

1. Using a sharp 21/64 drill bit, with your engine running, drill a hole slowly and carefully in the exhaust manifold. Tip: Greasing the flutes on the drill bit will act as an extra precautionary measure to help catch metal shavings while drilling.
2. Use a 1/8-27 NPT tap in the drilled hole. The engine should be running during this process as well. Make sure that when you start your tap it is parallel in all planes with your hole. Not getting the hole tapped straight could result in an exhaust leak. DO NOT RUN THE TAP ALL THE WAY IN! This is a tapered tap and running it all the way in could cause you to not be able to tighten the thermocoupler bushing completely.
3. Using a 9/16 wrench, tighten the bushing; it only needs to be secured firmly. Overtightening may cause the exhaust manifold to crack or the threads to strip out on the bushing or the manifold.
4. Install the thermocoupler probe into the bushing and tighten using your 9/16 wrench.
5. Route the black and orange lead wires with the black 2-pin male connector from the Scout main harness to the thermocoupler and connect the two corresponding connectors together.
